I spoke with Mark Poirier today, Bruce Martin from Whitman DPW ordered the "caution school zone" signs and will install them near Regal St first and they are deciding on Forest after as it is already congested.

No one (DPW?District/Police)has the funds in the budget to get the "flashing signs" this year as they are over $10K each.

Forgot to mention it to you

I believe the school paid for the Franklin Street signs with a grant and I believe Bruce had a grant for the signs that were installed on Temple Street. I added Bruce to this conversation for his input. South Ave and Forest Street are maintained by Whitman so we don't need the States input.*
